What our clients say

Mainstream video sites are blocked in countless classrooms throughout the world. We're excited to work with BoClips to make TED-Ed's artful library of videos, each featuring a lesson from a brilliant educator, more accessible to learners everywhere.

Logan Smalley
Founder, TED-Ed

I'm always searching for ways to keep my students engaged and bring the world inside our classroom. With Boclips, I have another amazing resource to add to my toolkit! From virtual field trips to real videos of animals we learn about, I'm so excited to have found an easy-to-navigate digital resource that I can use with my learners.

Victoria Mendoza
Teacher

I like that Boclips has instructional videos, news videos, and stock footage for different topics. This allows teachers to have videos that teach a concept and follow-up with how the concept is used in the real world in ways that can impact students.

Jacklyn Duff
Founder, WeCreateEdu

Intelligent, reliable content management

How our process works

Boclips EduFit content management strategy is designed to deliver our customers the best, most relevant educational content for their unique use cases.

STEP 1

We find videos

We find the best educational content from trusted video brands around the globe.

STEP 2

We acquire assets

We secure and manage rights to videos then ingest and organize quality-controlled content.

STEP 3

We curate content

We apply critical metadata to make our library easy to search and compile content into collections and packages.

STEP 4

We align to context

We match videos to age level, subject matter, and pedagogical use case for a particular audience.

STEP 5

We deliver videos

We host videos to stream or download with raw video files or in a distraction-free video player with trusted and reliable hosting.
